LEGAL QUESTIONS IN SCHUMACHER CASE MAY GO TO COURT

Efforts Made to Have Mrs. Schumacher and Henry Eddins Testify in Effort to Procure Compensation.

The hearing held here yesterday by Hon. Clyde Levy, district member of the State Compensation Board, was a very important one and several cases were either disposed of or started on their way to a final disposition.

Probably the most important case taken up was the case of Benjamin Schumacher, who was killed at the Maysville Cotton Mills by Henry L. Eddins. Practically all of the testimony in this case was taken before Mr. Levy but a legal question arose which may throw the investigation into the courts. Mrs. Schumacher has refused to answer certain questions and it has been decided to submit the question to Circuit Judge C. D. Newell as to whether or not she is compelled to answer the questions. An effort will also be made to have Henry L. Eddins, who killed Schumacher and who is now in the State Penitentiary, testify and if Eddins should refuse this will also be taken before Judge Newell. Because of these legal complications, there has been no decision reached in this case.

In the Butcher case the Board has decided that the father and mother of Butcher are entitled to compensation for partial dependency and if the attorneys in the case cannot agree, the board will fix the amount of compensation.

In the Stanley Mitchell case the board awarded Mr. Mitchell eleven months additional compensation in full and he will be continued on the list until recovery or the limit of the law has been drawn. Mr. Mitchell was injured at the Dam, one man being killed on either side of him in the same accident.

In the case of David Candy, who died from injuries received to a foot caught in a concrete mixer, an agreed settlement was reached.

Lee Emmons, who sustained an injury to an eye at the Dam, was also before the board and his case was taken under advisement.

In the case of Jack Taylor, injured at the Dam, there was a question as to whether or not the Bates-Rogers Construction Company was before the court on summons and this case was continued.

The case of Williams who was injured at the Reynolds Tobacco plant

FEDERAL JUDGE COCHRAN RESTRAINS STRIKERS

Temporary Injunction Issued Against Covington Strikers in District Federal Court.

Labor troubles of several weeks standing is the basis of a suit filed yesterday in the United States District Court by the Houston, Stanwood & Gamble Manufacturing Company, Covington, against Harry Meyer and thirty other defendants. The petition asks for an injunction to prevent the defendants from molesting or interfering with the employees of the company.

The petition charges that the defendants have been in the habit of congregating at Second and Philadelphia streets in the vicinity of the plant and using threatening and abusive language toward employees of the company; that in some instances the employees refused to return to their work.

Federal Judge Cochran granted a temporary injunction forbidding the defendants to interfere with the business of the company and warning them not to interfere with the employees. The hearing of the temporary injunction is set for March 1, when the company will seek to have the injunction made permanent.

The entire building was razed by the flames. Insurance in the amount of two thousand dollars was carried in the Mason County Mutual Insurance Company.

WEED MONOPOLY IS GIVEN TO BLUE GRASS BY NATURE

Good Will Come of Present Conditions in Tobacco Belt If Advantage Is Taken.

(Tobacco Trade Journal.)

The various aspects of the tobacco situation are being considered by thousands of Kentuckians. There is no problem before the residents of Kentucky more important than the problem of how the residents of the Bluegrass shall secure proper advantage from the natural monopoly they have in the production of the best class of Burley tobacco.

It would have meant millions upon millions of dollars to Kentucky had the residents of the Bluegrass long ago realized the fact that they had a natural monopoly in the production of the best class of tobacco and formed a compact organization to take advantage of that monopoly.

They have lost millions of dollars in the past forty years since the growing of tobacco was first introduced in the Bluegrass, by their failure to use their natural monopoly to the greatest advantage. There is now the possibility of their reaping far greater advantages in the future than they have in the past, and all Kentuckians are concerned in achieving that result.

The present price of tobacco and all other factors in the present situation are of importance. There are many reasons ascribed for the low prices offered by the manufacturers.

Some contend that one of the chief reasons for their offering so low prices is that they have on hand large stocks of tobacco purchased at the high prices that ruled last year and the year before; that under the ruling of the Government they can value their stock on hand at the end of the year either at cost or replacement value, making it possible for them to take advantage of the heavy depreciation in the price so as to reduce the amount they will have to pay the Government in income or excess profit taxes.

As an illustration—if a manufacturer had on hand in December a hundred million pounds of tobacco which he purchased at 50 cents a pound, and the replacement value shown by the market is 15 cents a pound, he could show a loss of $35,000,000 to be deducted from the income of 1920 and thereby save the payment of income or excess profit taxes on $35,000,000.

Others ascribe the low prices to the severe financial stringency which is illustrated by the fact that great corporations with the highest credit have been compelled to pay from 7 to 10 per cent. for money and have not been able to obtain all the money they needed even at those high rates. Others ascribe the poor quality of the crop of 1920 as a reason for the decrease in the prices. There is a probability that all of these elements enter into the making of the prices paid this year. Dark as the tobacco situation seems, good will come from it if it leads to the formation of such an organization as will bring possible and proper results from the natural monopoly, the Bluegrass has through the limestone and phosphate that underlie its soil.

CHURCH ACTIVE WHILE PASTOR IS CONFINED.

The congregation of the "Little Brek" church has been very active during the confinement of the pastor. The church building has been improved by giving the entire exterior two coats of paint. The firework over the front was taken down and rebuilt. The auditorium has been decorated with very superior paper. The chancel has been enlarged to give more room for the new parlor grand piano and chorus-choir. The Willing Workers have installed an electric light over the front door. The pulpit has been most satisfactorily supplied, principally by laymen of the church and of the city. The prayer meeting and Sunday school have been successfully carried on and on last Sunday when the pastor reappeared on the scene they presented to him candidates for church membership. He baptized six and received the entire class into the church. Only one was by certificate, the others were from the Sunday school. This is certainly a very creditable record.

CHAPLAIN'S NEW PICTURE HERE NEXT WEEK.

Manager Russell of the Washington Theater has just booked Charlie Chaplin's new picture, "The Kid" for an appearance at the Washington and Gem theaters Friday and Saturday of next week. This is the first picture Chaplin has shown in a long time and is now being shown in Cincinnati.

STANDARDIZED EGGS SELL HIGH ON LOW MARKET

Great Drop in Price of Eggs Does Not Effect From Standardized Flocks.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 24. — In spite of the unprecedented drop in the price of February eggs reported for the week of February 6 to 9, Kentucky farmers who have standardized flocks will continue to receive six cents apiece for their eggs, according to a statement made here today by J. Holmes Martin, in charge of poultry work at the State College of Agriculture.

The drop from 54 cents on February 3 to 34 cents on February 9 on the New York market is declared by poultry authorities at the State College to be the greatest slump that has ever been recorded in the egg market for that month.

While the owner of the average flock will be receiving in the neighborhood of 34 cents for his product, they declare, farmers who have standardized their flocks will still be getting a premium price for their eggs, which will be used for hatching purposes during the poultry standardizing campaign in the state. More than seventy counties have signed up to furnish standardized eggs for the spring season, Mr. Martin said. Orders already are in for practically all of the possible production, he asserted.

RECORD-BREAKING AVERAGE.

Mr. Wood Wallingford, of the Germantown neighborhood, sold about 3,000 pounds of tobacco at the Farmers & Planters warehouse yesterday at a general average of $47.88. This is probably the best average made on the local market this year for such a large amount of tobacco.

INCOME TAX EXPERT HERE.

An expert from the State Revenue office is spending this week at the local revenue office assisting in making out the income tax returns for Mason county people. The expert has been kept busy all week.

HOOVER LEAVES HIS ACCEPTANCE WITH HARDING

Asks Harding To Decide Where He Could Be of Most Service to the American Nation.

New York, Feb. 24. — Herbert Hoover declared in a statement today that he had left it entirely with President-elect Harding to decide whether he would be of more service as Secretary of Commerce or as director of European relief.

In a statement Mr. Hoover said: "I left it to Mr. Harding to determine whether I can be of more service to the public as Secretary of Commerce or carrying out the public trust already entrusted to me as a private citizen."

Mr. Hoover's statement was made after he had announced that upon invitation to become a member of the next cabinet, he had put up to Mr. Harding a proposal for general reconstruction of the Department of Commerce. The statement was issued after Mr. Hoover had been asked his announcement meant that he would enter the cabinet if his views were met.

"As the Department of Commerce stands today," Mr. Hoover said, "it consists largely of a group of scientific bureaus which have only a remote connection with commerce itself." He added that if he should accept the position he saw a way to make changes which would make of it a "real department of commerce."

DIXON—CROPPER.

Mr. John A. Cropper, aged 23, of Springfield, and Miss Anne F. Dixon, aged 18, of Trinity, were married at the County Clerk's office here this morning by County Judge H. P. Parnell.

The regular weekly prayer service will be held at the First Baptist church this evening at 7 o'clock. The public is invited and the members are urged to attend.

MOUNTAIN SCHOOL CONTRIBUTES TO EUROPEANS

Students of Kentucky Settlement School Contribute Liberally to Relief of Starving Europeans.

Louisville, Feb. 24. — Half of the old saying—the first half—that if a mountaineer is your friend he'll die for you and that if he's your enemy he'd just as soon you'd die for him, is again proved true—at least by implication and intention in the gift of the Hindman settlement school, Hindman, Knott county, Kentucky, of $287.22 to the fund of the European Relief Council in raising to feed the starving children in Europe.

The gift has the flavor of sacrifice, for Knott county is one of the famous mountain counties where the necessities of life are hard to get. Much less is there an overflow for helping those who live "over yon mountain," as mountain people vaguely term the world beyond their hills that few of them see. This gift proves however that their imagination is not dull and that the appeal of hungry children strikes home.

Settlement schools in the ranges of Blue Ridge Mountains, are, in most cases, the one point of contact between the hill country and the outside world. There are no roads by which others can come in or mountaineers go out. Parents sacrifice to the quick, that children may go to live in the settlement schools. On the same principle of doing for others the children of Hindman Settlement School have saved the lives of twenty-nine boys and girls under Mr. Hoover's charge in Europe.

Kentuckians are sending their contributions to Richard Bean, Treasurer of the State Committee, care the Louisville National Bank, Louisville.

AMERICAN LEGION MEETS.

Regular meeting of Leslie H. Arthur Post American Legion will be held Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the quarters in Sutton street.

The social given at the First Baptist church last night by all of the auxiliary societies of that church was quite a success in every way. There were many in attendance.

UNIVERSITY MEN AND WOMEN TO HOLD MEETING TONIGHT

Steps Will Be Taken Toward Forming an Association for Ex-Students of Kentucky University at Tonight's Gathering.

Graduates and former students of Kentucky University will meet at the Farm Bureau building this evening at 7 o'clock for the purpose of considering the organization of an association.

This is but one of scores of meetings to be held in practically every county in the state during the next few weeks to get together in some organization all former students of the University. Mason county should have a very large organization as there are many former students in all parts of this county. If the former students take an interest in the organization, Mason county should have one of the largest and best associations in the entire state.

The meeting will begin promptly at 7 o'clock and all who are interested should be in attendance at tonight's meeting.

GEO. BRETEL TO BE HONORED BY ODDFELLOWS.

George I. Breitel, of Newport, last Grand Master of the Order of Oddfellows in Kentucky, and well known in Maysville, will be signally honored by the Oddfellows of the state of Ohio at Cincinnati tonight when he will have conferred upon him the Grand Decoration of Chivalry, the highest honor in Oddfellowship. The decoration will be conferred by Major General Fred T. A. Hahn, of Toledo, Commander of the Department of Ohio, Patriarch Militant and is conferred in recognition of distinguished service rendered the order.

SMALL BLAZE.

About 1 o'clock this afternoon the fire department was called to the home of Izella Whaley, colored, in Strawberry alley, in the rear of St. Patrick's church. A fire caused by a bad fire. The chemicals were used and the damage will probably amount to twenty dollars.

A TARIFF PERSUADER.

"Chairman Fordney's advocacy of the restoration of the maximum and minimum tariff provision in the next Republican tariff law will meet with the approval of those who studies the operation of that clause in the Republican tariff law of 1909," declares the Republican Publicity Association. "The clause will be of particular value in the near future because of the tendency on the part of many of our foreign competitors to discriminate against American exports by way of vexatious regulations and, in some instances, denying the entry of certain American goods to their markets. For example, it was testified recently before the Ways and Means Committee that American thermos bottles had been kept out of Great Britain under a licensing system still in operation there, while thermos bottles from Japan and Italy had been given entry to the British Market. Other instances have been cited of a similar nature.

"Again, there has been considerable talk of 'retaliation' on the part of certain foreign nations against American goods should we restore our basic policy of protection. True, this threat is being held out mainly by importers of foreign goods in the hope of scaring the protectionists out of their intention to increase the duty rates. Secretary Colby, on his return from his South American trip, declared that no intimation of retaliation had been brought to his attention while down there, and Representative Green, ranking member on the Ways and Means Committee, declares such talk to be a baggy which is dragged forth by the Democratic party whenever a protective tariff law is in contemplation. But the adoption of the maximum and minimum clause in the next tariff law would make assurance doubly sure in discouraging and disposition to retaliate on us for returning to a tariff policy more generally endorsed today than even in our history.

"The adoption of the maximum and minimum in the tariff law of 1909 precipitated a torrent of expostulation from the free traders. Champ Clark, then leader of the minority in the House, declared that, having provided unseasonably high rates of duty on imports, the majority deliberately provided for a horizontal elevation of the rates by 25 per cent., which was protection gone mad. The clause was necessitated by numerous foreign discriminations against American exports, but its action was so effective that the maximum rates were never applied under it. Within a few days after the world had received notice of the maximum and minimum provision, all discrimination against American exports had ceased and every nation proud to be good. So the minimum rates, the rates in the law itself were the only ones ever applied. And despite the campaign of falsehood directed against the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, the average ad valorem rate of duty on all imports under that law was under 20 per cent. while the Wilson-Gorman law enacted under Cleveland was a fraction over 20 per cent.

"The maximum and minimum has proved its worth in the past, and it is too good a persuader to scrap in these days of intense competition for markets."

HOW THEY DID IT.

Percy H. Johnson, chosen last year as president of the Chemical National Bank, of New York, when 39 years old, said to a tearful old gentleman who sought a "job": "You are only as old as you feel. Your trouble is self-pity. Self-pity is fatal to success." That old gentleman is getting $20,000 a year now.

Helen Christine Beneti quotes Louis Jay Horowitz, big builder in the world, as follows:

"Every man and woman in business is more or less handicapped by ideas of preconceived limitations as to what he or she can do and what he or she cannot do. Discard all your ideas as to your limitations.

"Make yourself indispensable to your employer whether you hate him or not, and, in enlightened selfishness, that employer will have to secure you to himself by promotion. It is all up to you."

Philip Curtis, now rolling in wealth as an author, tried twenty different jobs and failed in all. He wrote, "Wanted—A Fool," and his royalties alone have made him rich.

Fay Bainter, star of "East is West," went on the stage at five. She failed continually until she met Mrs. Fiske, noted actress. Said Mrs. Fiske to her:

"You must picture to yourself every day that you already are what you want to be and key yourself up accordingly."

She did; she won.

HOPE FOR THE WORLD.

When a man who has made much money out of the display of the female form comes out and says, "I want to see more clothes on women; I want them to dress more modestly; I want to see longer skirts and more of them," there's surely hope for the world. That's Lee Shubert, theatrical producer.

When Dr. Bowlby, a leader in the Sunday reform movement, declares, "I believe in kissing. It is wonderfully delightful as an exercise, and I'm not against it either on week days or on Sundays," he touches the human side of things.

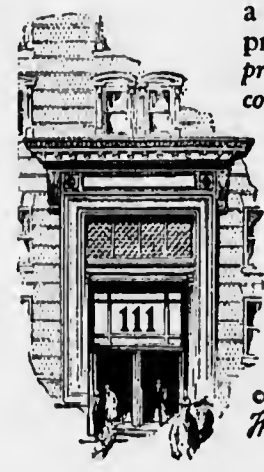

It is fair to presume that there is much good on each side of almost every question. If Shubert favors a return to sanity in dressing it is not fair to question his motives by even expressing opinion that with more clothes on the women outside, greater crowds will pack his theater to see the girls in the ordinary garb of musical comedy.

If dear old Dr. Bowlby and Mr. Shubert keep on moving in their present direction, at no late date the millennium may arrive.

An Englishman visiting the United States says he is glad England lost the United States when she did. He's right about it. To have waited until now would have ruined her, and she would have been left dry besides.—Houston Post.

New York Letter by Lucy Jeanne Price

New York. — The heroism of always being ready to say "Num-ber-1" doesn't strike most of us until some dramatic moment when we have it ground into our minds. But the New York Telephone Company has come to the front to give recognition to it, with a system of medals and cash rewards for distinguished devotion to duty. Hardly a day passes, its officials declare, without an individual case of such devotion that partakes of the heroic. Aside from fires, burglars and all the other crises that the occasionally humbly exasperating hello girls come through with justice to whatever heroes gave them an inheritance, there are the everyday things such as storms. One New York man tells on himself the story of the time in a blizzard when he stopped a young girl on the way to the elevated to tell her that she couldn't get through to town and would better turn homeward. "Oh, no," she replied cheerily. "I'm a telephone girl. I've got to get down so you can 'phone your office that you can't."

Delicatest, says Judge Jean Norris, of the Domestic Court, are the most prolific cause of divorce. Not drink, nor prohibition, nor poverty, nor clubs, nor suffrage, nor any of the other much argued matters of life, but just plain delicatest, this woman who has heard more family troubles than has probably anyone else in this city of troubles, puts at the head of the home-breaking causes. One man's question to her, she believes, is typical of whole job lots of cases. "Now I ask yer, yer honor," he said, "how would YOU like to come home night after night from a hard day's work to a supper of cold potato salad and sardines?"

Most of us think of the "war work."

Women's Christian Association as being all through with now. It was intense while it lasted but now they are all comfortably settled in nice offices back home. That's what we think—when we think about it at all. It struck me with something of a shock, in consequence, when I heard a report at the Y. M. C. A. headquarters here of the job its workers are carrying on now in the devastated regions of Eastern Europe. In the most desolate districts of Poland, the Grey Samaritans are helping to keep life in the bodies and spirit of an almost hopeless people. They are girls who are American citizens of Polish origin, sent over by the Y. W. C. A., who are particularly successful in acting as liaison between the needs of the people there and the American authorities. All of them can talk Polish; many were old enough when they migrated to remember the land of their birth. Christine Zduleczna, of Pittsburgh, is one of these girls, and she is typical. She is working in Kovel, a wretched hovel of a town, worse than anything Tolstoi has described. It is dirty and unsanitary, plunged into the depths. "And here," writes Coningsby Dawson, "I met Christine Zduleczna. She looked trim and confident in her horizon-blue uniform—a triumph of courage over circumstances."

The Prince de Bourbon is adding more confusion to New York society than did the scion of British nobility who recently dined and danced in our midst. Just now he is the lion of the Manhattan colony at Palm Beach, and the particularists are writing letters to the New York papers to explain he isn't a prince at all in Spain but only third cousin to the King and oughtn't to be spoken to or of as anything but mister. However he dashes on and seems to be entirely pardoned by those who get near to see him dash, for any lack of closer relation to the throne.

But princes or no princes the onward sweep of Democracy continues to sweep. There were a good many thousands of Old's and alates when a tea cove store opened on "The Avenue," and now has come the first of the white-tiled-and-griddle-caked restaurants to encroach upon that "real" Fifth Avenue—above 23rd street. The discouraging thing to the objector is that these economic symbols seem to get patronage there as elsewhere.

The scenic artists are planning to prove how much more than Local No. 529, they really are. In order to demonstrate that their art is a real art, they are going to erect a new $75,000 headquarters in Times Square where there will be class rooms and classes; with art instructors of prominence to teach ambitious youth. The organization has 1,000 members in motion pictures, legitimate and stock studios all over the country.

If the removal or cure of remediable defects in school children had the great beneficial effects that were expected? Nobody knows; for both time and follow-up methods have been lacking. Now, however, the U. S. Public Health Service is making arrangements to have such children in all parts of the country followed up for some years to learn how greatly they actually have profited by the help given them. It will welcome additional information along these lines from all sources.

The race is not to the swift but to the healthy. Keep fit.

UNCLE TED'S BED-TIME STORIES.

War Debts and Geography.

Well, it doesn't look so big on the map, anyway. I do wish the people who make geographies would make all the maps of countries on the same scale. These maps give me a wrong idea of the size of some of the countries. It was Ruth talking, and, in reply, Jack exclaimed:

"The figures prove that I was right, whatever the maps look like."

"What's the discussion about?" inquired Uncle Ted, looking up from the paper he was reading as he sat deep in the cushions of a big easy chair.

"Teacher was telling my class today about some of the changes in the geography because of the war," responded Jack, "and I was just now telling Ruth about the big colonies England got in Africa. She wouldn't believe me when I told her that one of these colonies alone is as big as all our Southern states east of the Mississippi River, and sometimes will be just about as valuable. I proved it to her by the figures in the encyclopedia."

"That's fine, Jack, I'm glad you have learned how to use the encyclopedia. You can't carry all kinds of information in your head, but you can find nearly everything in a good encyclopedia, and it's a good thing to form the habit of looking things up when a question arises like that you and Ruth have been discussing. You won't forget the facts you have learned in this way."

"Then too," continued Uncle Ted, "I'm glad this discussion came up, for it will make you interested in some further facts concerning the treaty of peace and the relations between the United States and the countries that went to war with Germany. If you think you'd be interested, I'll tell you a few things that are just now receiving a good deal of attention from the big men of this country."

"Go ahead, Uncle Ted," exclaimed Ruth. "I don't like to have Jack beat me out in a dispute, but I'm glad he told me some things I don't know. What is it the big men of the country are talking about?"

"Well, it's like this," answered Ted. "You know the war was originally a European war growing out of the commercial rivalries of European nations. In the beginning we had no direct interest in it, but it became our business to get into the war when it was apparent that Germany intended to sink our ships in violation of international law. After we entered the war it became apparent that the Allies were out of money and supplies, so we loaned the various nations different sums amounting all to about $10,000,000,000. Nearly half of this we loaned to Great Britain, and she made loans to some of the other countries. The United States did not have the money in its treasury to loan to the Allies, so it borrowed money from its own people by selling them bonds. The people of the United States supplied the money and they must eventually pay the bonds through taxation, except to the extent that the Allies repay the money we loaned them."

"Now, just to give you a general idea of the situation, and without dealing exact figures, but figures that are approximately correct, the United States raised for war purposes about $35,000,000,000 of which about $10,000,000,000 was raised by taxes and $25,000,000,000 by sale of bonds and other evidences of debt. We are still in debt more than $24,000,000,000, but the Allies owe us about $10,000,000,000. Some time ago Great Britain made a suggestion to the United States that we cancel the debt of $10,000,000,000 the Allies owe us. Of course, if we canceled the debt, that would mean that the people of the United States who pay taxes would have to pay the $10,000,000,000 for the United States has it bonds out for that amount which we raised to loan to the Allies. The additional burden would fall upon all the people of the country, for, although lots of people do not pay any income tax, or any other kind of tax, directly, yet they pay the tax indirectly when they buy goods, for of course taxes are figured in as part of the cost of doing business. There are about 110,000,000 people in the United States, so you can easily figure out that if we cancel the debt of the Allies, it will mean, on an average, placing an additional debt of $90 on every man, woman and child in the country, or $150 for every head of a family."

"I don't think that would be right or fair," interrupted Jack. "Even if the Allies pay their $10,000,000,000 loan, this country will still have a debt of about $14,000,000,000 to pay won't it?"

"Yes, that's about right, Jack. The war will cost us about $25,000,000,000, without counting interest, even if the Allies pay their debt. The interest will probably amount to more than the principal, by the time it is paid."

"That's interesting," Ruth intervened. "But what's all this got to do with this map Jack was showing me?"

"Just this, Ruth; You see, when the war was over, the Allies made a treaty of peace with Germany and took a lot of territory away from her. Jack's teacher was telling his class about it today, and Jack was telling you. France was given a big chunk off one side of what used to be Germany, and is to get a lot of money as reparation, or what we would call damages, in ordinary business. I think France is entitled to a lot more than she will get. Then Great Britain gets the German colonies in Africa, that Jack has been telling you about. He is right about the size and value of the colonies. German East Africa is about the size of all of the southeastern corner of the United States, east of the Mississippi River and from the Potomac River to the Gulf. And in richness of resources it is no less valuable. German Southwest Africa is about the size of Texas and Oklahoma combined, and probably about as rich in ultimate resources. By means of her control of railroads and ports, Great Britain will control practically all the industry and commerce of Africa, the richest undeveloped region in the world."

"Now what I wanted to impress upon your minds was that after getting all this rich territory in Africa, Great Britain ought not expect the people of the United States to cancel the debt Great Britain owes them. We have not asked for anything from Germany, and we are willing to give the Allies plenty of time to pay their debt to us, but we won't consent to cancel the debt entirely."

"We certainly shouldn't," said Ruth. "Papa complains every year about the taxes he has to pay, and I suppose it is as you say, he pays more taxes in the high prices he pays for things he has to buy. I hope they don't increase the taxes any by giving anything to Great Britain."

"Not much danger," responded Uncle Ted. "After March 4 we are going to have officers in charge of this government who will look after our own interests pretty closely."

Will History Repeat?

Fifty years ago, the spring and summer of 1871 was a very early and mild one, wild strawberries ripening on the prairies of Missouri by the 4th of May and wheat harvest beginning by the 7th day of June and lots of wheat threshed by the first of July.

Again, 25 years ago, the spring and summer of 1896 was a very early and mild one, there being only one light frost in the month of April and none in May. The editor ate roasting ears from the Charles M. Fleming farm, now owned by James H. Seasley, on the 4th day of July.

Now, understand, we are not predicting an early spring, but we are wondering if history will repeat itself at the end of another twenty-five year period. — Flemingsburg Times-Democrat.

The green and yellow hints so frequently to be found in caterpillars are believed to be due to coloring matter derived from their food and passed through the blood of the spinners. By impregnating leaves with artificial colors the experimenters caused some species of caterpillars to produce silk of bright orange-yellow and the rose hues.

Auction sales in Japan are conducted very differently from the American plan. A bidder at a Japanese auction writes his name and bid on a piece of paper which he puts into a box. This is opened by the auctioneer and the highest bidder receives the goods.

It was so dark and gloomy last week that it created a spirit of despondency. Folks were down in the month and looked like they were just recovering from sleeping sickness. — Correspondence in Nicholasville News.

AFTER ANY ILLNESS THE BLOOD IS WEAK

If You Get Well Slowly, Try Building Up Your Blood.

IT'S BLOOD THAT FEEDS THE BODY.

Pepto-Manganum Cures Itch, Red Blood, Changes Pale Complexions to Bloom of Health.

A serious illness, even a cold that is hard to shake off, can reduce the blood to a weak, watery condition which keeps the normal strength and vigor from coming back.

This poor physical condition brings on a helpless, discouraged mental condition which rich, red blood can restore.

Pure blood should be rich in iron which Nature supplies to some extent in food. But often through faulty digestion or improper diet you don't get the needed iron, and your blood, on which your health depends, grows weaker and weaker.

God's Pepto-Manganum enriches the blood, increases the red blood cells and supplies the ingredients that bring a quick response in vigor, vitality, and fine color.

Physicians recommend God's Pep-to-Manganum. When you order, be sure the word "God's" is on the package.
Without "God's" it is not Pepto-Manganum. Furnished in both liquid and tablet form. For sale by all druggists.

WINNES TRIAL MAY BE STAGED IN BELL

Change of Venue Expected to Be Asked by Attorneys for Commonwealth.

Middlesboro, Ky., Feb. 24. — Bell county, either Middlesboro or Pineville, will be the scene of the second trial of Dr. H. C. Winnes, charged with the murder of Miss Lara Parsons, Pine Mountain Settlement school teacher, on a lonely mountain trail, if Judge W. T. Davis allows a change of venue, which, it is understood here, will be asked by the prosecution.

It is understood the motion for a change of venue will be entered and argued by counsel for the commonwealth in open court April 10. The trial of Winnes is set for April 17.
Counsel for Winnes, it is said, will oppose a change of venue.

At Winnes' first trial in the Harlan Circuit Court eleven jurors voted for acquittal and one for conviction until the jury was discharged after four days of deliberation. Since the trial one of the Harlan men who signed Winnes' bond claims he has received an anonymous letter threatening his life if he refused to strike his name from the bond.

at Toltlesboro in a very exhausted condition."
